LOCATION:

The Sleat peninsula is known as The Garden of Skye, and it is easy to see why! The indigenous woodland and abundant wildflowers combined with the magnificent sea and mountain views make it a place difficult to be rivalled. It is an ideal location for wildlife enthusiasts with many woodland walks and the opportunity to glimpse the golden eagle, deer, sea eagle, whales, dolphins, porpoises amongst the abundant wildlife that make this part of the country their home. The traditional crofting community of Aird is situated at the South end of the Sleat Peninsula with beautiful scenery, sandy beaches, great walks and spectacular views across the Sound of Sleat to Morar, Eigg and the Ardnamurchan Peninsula.

ACCOMMODATION:

Half of 17 Aird is a two-storey detached house dating from circa 1900, with a conservatory added in 2023. The property extends to approximately 81 sqm and benefits from a mix of timber and uPVC double-glazed windows and doors. Heating is provided by oil-fired central heating installed in 2021, supplemented by an electric panel heater in the sunroom and multi-fuel stoves in the kitchen and lounge. The kitchen has been replaced in recent years, and the cottage floor has been damp proofed. Safety and compliance features include an interlinked smoke alarm system, PAT testing, and a chimney sweeping certificate. Building warrants and planning consent are in place for the conservatory. The property also includes a renovated byre, featuring boarded walls and wall insulation.
